

Sources of Free, Open Source Software

Blacks Hills TechExpo – October 17, 2007
Wayne D. Lang - wayne.lang@rcas.org

Firefox: the open source browser
<http://www.mozilla.org>

OpenOffice.org: the free office suite – it just keeps getting better and better
<http://www.openoffice.org>
NeoOffice: OpenOffice.org for MacOS X <http://www.neooffice.org>

Irfanview: simplified graphic resizing & resampling tool
<http://www.irfanview.com>

Gantt Project: project management software charts and tracks projects
<http://www.ganttproject.org>

Kompozer: web authoring & publishing application that works like Dreamweaver
<http://www.kompozer.net>

Inkscape: the open source drawing application similar to Illustrator
<http://www.inkscape.org>

GIMP: graphics software – for UNIX, Windows, MacOS X
<http://www.gimp.org>

Scribus: page-layout software similar to Publisher
<http://www.scribus.net>

Terragen: renders terrain and scenery
<http://www.planetside.co.uk/terrigen>

Open Source Creative Suite: group of graphics & web tools equivalent to commercial titles
<http://reviews.zdnet.co.uk/software/contentcreation/0,1000001068,39286832,00.htm>

Open 3D Visualization Toolkit: Minnesota Museum of Science project that focuses on using 3D graphics to visualize and display
<http://lrc2.smm.org/visualize/>

Sourceforge: the searchable collection of 100,000+ open source software projects:
http://sourceforge.net/docman/display_doc.php?docid=6025&group_id=1

480 Favorites: a collection of open source titles organized by by business category
<http://mashable.com/2007/09/23/open-source>

Training & Books for OpenOffice.org: by Solveig Haugland: <http://www.getopenoffice.org>

SpikeSource: a service that monitors and maintains your open source installations
<http://www.spikesource.com>